Possible story line for TO single Player:

1. Have the main character switch sides in the middle of the game. The coalition decides the player know too much and tries to have him killed. The player is not too happy with that and decides use his knowledge against the Coalition

Training Mission: Trooper

The five world superpowers have joined under a single government, 'The Coalition'. They are using their position to impose strict guidelines and restrictions on smaller countries. Most countries were reluctantly pushed into submission, while some others valiantly resisted. Embargoes and economic sanctions have been setup against the resisting countries. As a result of these, some resisting countries have broken and submitted. But the most determined have formed The Resistance, whose most effective weapon is terrorism.

The Resistance isn't without a few sympathizers. Even within The Coalition, people have been showing disapproval for the way the new world super power is treating resisting countries. Groups have started to protest openly in the major cities of The Coalition. At first these protests were peaceful, but they are now getting more and more violent. Riots are now common occurrence in these cities. Rumor is that some underground groups with connections within The Resistance are trying to bring down The Coalition from within.

The riots, violent protests and terrorist acts have not gone unnoticed by The Coalition. A new task force, code-named 'Black Raven', has been created to deal with these problems. 'Black Raven' has now gone operational and is starting its Assault on Terror.

For three years you have trained to join the Navy Seals. With the formation of 'Black Raven', you have been given the opportunity to serve in the world's top tactical intervention team. Today is your final test: if you manage to finish this training mission, you will be promoted to field duty. You will finally put those years of hard work to good use.

VIP name: Jake Holsaw

Special bots names: Jef Malou, Ilya Röpcke, Bobbejaan Thijs

Need:

One VIP called "Jake Holsaw" in a room somewhere, with a bot kinda dumb, looking at the wall and holding. When the VIP is killed the other bot should start shooting, and spawn two other bots somewhere in the map. The player must return to the starting location to finish the level. If you could have people that don't look like idiots in the train station that would be good. Maybe hostages with knives would do the trick I don't know. They should have different skins. And they should not be saying hostage stuff.

Start as SF with Terror skin.

Mission objectives:

The accident in the Thanassos tunnel turned out to have been caused by 'Black Raven', under the orders of The Coalition. Having killed four of their agents, they will be sending operatives after you... The hostages you rescued are not terrorists per se, but they did prove to have disturbing information about The Coalition. It appears that The Coalition has been harboring terrorism to keep the member countries in a continuous state of war. War is peace, ignorance is strength... Combined with the knowledge of recent events, you decide to do your best to put a stop to The Coalition's insane objectives.

From the hostages you freed, you learned that The Coalition will be sending a weapon shipment to a terrorist organization in a few days. You are to destroy the weapon shipment or disable the communication equipment so that no reinforcements can be called in.

Mission Seventeen: Winter Ransom

A few months ago, a terrorist attack occurred in a crowded marketplace in Reykjavík, Iceland. The blame, of course, was put on The Resistance. We now have evidence that one of the ministers in the Iceland Parliament, David Bjorgvinsson, has asked Black Raven to simulate a terrorist attack on its own soil. This allowed said minister to easily pass a bill increasing the Iceland military budget tenfold. This of course made the minister's friends in the arms industry rather happy.

We are going to make an example of him.

Informants have let us know that Mr. Bjorgvinsson will be meeting with arms dealers within the capital city. Although the area will be well guarded, we believe this is a perfect opportunity to take out the traitor.

Best of luck to you.

Congratulation message: Very good work, soldier. Hopefully this will make the world's leaders think twice before turning to corruption.

Mission Eighteen: Verdon

The dam of Verdon is a few kilometers ahead of the city of Ste-Croix in France. You and your team are going to destroy the dam, flooding the entire area. Doing so is going to mobilize the Coalition forces in the area and allow you to easily accomplish your next mission.

Mapname: Verdon

Scenario Title: Mission Eighteen: Verdon

Scenario Desc1: We are to destroy the Verdon dam to distract the Coalition forces.

Scenario Text1: - Place an explosive charge at one of the two dam weak points

Scenario Text2: - Eliminate any resistance you might encounter

All enemy dead:

VIP dead:

Player weapons limitation:	no limit
Enemy bots weapons:	no limit, 10 bots one skill level higher then the allies
Allied bots weapons:	no limit, 6 allies.

Mission Twenty: CIA

Whilst studying the newly acquired weapon, our scientists have discovered a self-destruct mechanism. Needless to say, we lost five good scientists in the explosion. It is improbable that The Coalition only had one prototype of the weapon. We are therefore going to raid the CIA headquarters and try to find the location of a second prototype.

You will have to infiltrate the heavily guarded building and make your way to the server room. Once you gained access, use your uncanny knowledge of computer systems to hack into the mainframe and locate a second OICW.

The Coalition is not going to expect an attack: use the element of surprise to your advantage. If you capture CIA employees, do not let them escape.

Final Mission: Omega

Following your success in operation Metal Storm, we were able to create a few working replicas of the OICW. Be aware that the weapon is still only a prototype...

The Resistance has learned that the leaders of The Coalition are meeting next month near London. We now have the chance to deal a deadly blow to The Coalition. The Resistance has made a nuclear submarine available to us. Using one of its ballistic missiles, we are going to destroy the meeting building.

Damnation! A malfunction in the air recycling system has forced us to surface and our presence has been detected! A 'Black Raven' tactical team has been dispatched to neutralize us. We must hurry and initiate the missile launching sequence as soon as possible. It is most fortunate that The Coalition is unaware of our intents...

Allied bots weapons: no limit, 1 ally. Armed with oicws

Cut scene: You die

Player starts in front of the console, in third person view. Slomo 0.3. The round starts right away, and you're getting shot from behind. The enemy bot has near infinite health, and you have very low health (heh). You get shot, you die, the final screen shows up with the epilogue (but it's the 'story' screen, with a different story). The button reads 'The End', when you click it it exits single player.

Epilogue text:

While you were entering the coordinates in the missile guidance computer, the growing 'Black Raven' forces managed to get through your defenses. After massacring your entire team, they put a bullet square in the back of your head. It is somewhat ironic that you went down so easily after having fought so hard.

But The Coalition was too late: moments before facing your demise, you managed to initiate the ballistic missiles launch sequence. The leaders of The Coalition never knew what hit them. It should also be noted that the civilian casualties in the area were kept to a minimum, thanks to the low yield that the missiles offered.

Shortly after the assassination of The Coalition's leaders, one of The Coalition's executives leaked information concerning Black Raven to the press. It wasn't long before Black Raven was used as a scapegoat. Following an internal investigation of the Black Raven administration board, broad evidence of corruption was uncovered. Further inquiries showed that one of the terrorists responsible for the London bombing, namely you, was a former Black Raven operative. This, combined with the rampant corruption within Black Raven, forced its dissolution a few months later.

The controversy didn't spare The Coalition either. A few months after the event, England and China decided to break away from The Coalition and actively oppose it. Having been tremendously weakened, it is believed that The Coalition will not last another two years. The newly separated countries, along with the resisting countries, have begun forming a peacemaking group similar to the former United Nations.

This is the world you helped create. Let's hope it turns out for the best.

Your mission was a success. You have succeeded in launching 3 ballistic missiles against the Coalition.

Shortly after the launch the growing force of the Coast guards managed to get through your defenses. They killed you and your entire team. Your death was rather painless, unlike the way you lived. Shot a few times in the back and then in the head and it was over the light went out. As it was for the unsuspecting leaders of the Coalition, they never knew what hit them.

Within hours it was known that the leader of the Coalition were assassinated. Black Raven was put to blame; they had not done their jobs properly. An investigation was launched to find out where Black Raven had failed. It did not take long to find out that you were a former Black Raven agent and a deeper investigation was launched to find out why you had defected. There treachery was revealed a slew of documents were found incriminating Black Raven of crimes against society. Black Raven was disbanded.

The Coalition received an incredible amount of bad press, and lost face. The countries belonging to the Coalition returned to their government. The trade embargo was lifted, causing trade to start anew.

The resistance having no reason to exist also vanished, and countries found new respect for each other.
